Board Opposes Tuition Increase

Legislature's Latest Proposal Asks for State Minimum Fee of $37.50 a Term

By MAC HILLIARD

A proposed boost in state college tuition fees was officially opposed this week in the ASSFSC board of directors meeting amid charges that the move would "hurt" state colleges "terrifically."

The tuition legislation, now before a senate subcommittee on finance meeting in the state capitol, was presented by State Legislative Auditor A. Alan Post as one of his several moves to trim the education budget.

The board also went on record as urging foreign and out of state students and their families to write district representatives in Sacramento expressing opposition to another phase of the bill aimed against such students.

Dean John Bergstresser sparked the action in the Board of Directors meeting with the observation that Post's proposal could boost foreign and out-of-state students' tuition fees to a prohibitive amount in some universities and colleges.

$100 TUITION

"It could raise such fees from $20 to over $100 per semester in some cases," he said.

Prices for scholarships sponsored by the SFSC Associated Students would also be boosted, according to Jack Anderson, Associated Students treasurer.

Strongly opposed to any official opposition to the bill was chairman Jack Van Noy who said the board should "stay out of politics and let Sacramento take care of it." His was the only negative vote in the board of directors' stand.

UPPED TO $37.50

The Legislative Auditor's latest proposal calls for a minimum fee of $37.50 per semester for state college students. This move would affect students with a year or more residence in California, as well as out of state students. The bill must pass the finance subcommittee now in session and meet approval from the State Board of Education before it becomes law.

The maximum tuition fee now established for state colleges has been set at $25 per semester, with the average hitting around the $14 mark.

'Prisoners' Opens 2-Week Schedule

San Francisco State's first Christopher Fry production, "The Sleep of Prisoners," opened its six night stint last night in Frederic Burk auditorium. The play will continue tonight and tomorrow night and will conclude Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights of next week.

Tickets are currently on sale at the theatre box office, AA 11. Student tickets are priced at 60 cents and general admission tickets at 90 cents.

A CHURCH SETTING

This story of four prisoners of war cast into an abandoned church abbey reflects the depth of Fry's poetic philosophy and at the same time dramatizes the problems involved when man attempts to unite with his fellow man.

Told in a series of dream sequences, the work has called for highly selective directing and special staging. Auditorium entrances have been utilized as part of the special design with a single set designed to double for the church and the scenes of the dream fantasies.

EFFECTIVE CAST

Heading the small, but effective cast are Dion Chesse as Corporal Joe Adams, Ted Samuel as Private Tim Meadows, Bob McClay as Private Peter Able, and Gary Hughes as Private David King. Direction, lighting, sets, and costumes have been executed by Brad Aronson in connection with Dr. J. Fenton McKenna, coordinator of the drama department.

The traditionally continuous work has been divided into two separate acts and an intermission. Curtain time is set for 8:30.

Doelger Denies Space Reserved for Housing

Bergstresser Asks More Steps Before Nationals Okayed

Discussion on the Tri Omega's Kappa Sigma Kappa national fraternity constitution was postponed until next week by the Board of Directors in a lengthy meeting last Tuesday.

Dean Bergstresser, early in the meeting, stated however that he felt that any action should be supplemented by incorporating other steps in its approval.

He added, "The question is broader than the situation merely meeting the requirements of the 10 point plan. We should supplement the C.A.A. action by incorporating other steps to get all parties concerned into the matter."

The "parties concerned," which he referred to, include the Dean's committee and the faculty.

The C.A.A., in a meeting last week, referred the constitution to the constitution committee for further study. If it is approved by them, in that it meets the requirements of the 10 point plan of the school, the constitution will then go before the C.A.A. for approval. Constitutional adherence to the 10 point plan is required of all on-campus organizations.

The Board of Directors will also have to pass on it. It then requires a vote of the general student body before final approval can be made.

Dean Bergstresser felt that the faculty and the Deans Committee should have a voice in the matter. The policy initiated by the faculty in the past was against national fraternities and sororities on the campus.

Main Argument for Nationalized Frats Is Called 'Erroneous'

National fraternity stock fell considerably this week as the main argument for nationalization was proven to be based on false information. Replying to questions put to Henry Doelger, Inc., by the Golden Gater, Mr. B. Poncetta, vice president of the firm revealed that no reservation had been made by the company for ground for fraternity houses at the new campus.

Proponents of national fraternities have claimed that national organizations would finance building of houses at the new campus "to alleviate the housing problem there." Ground, they have said, is being reserved by building magnate Henry Doelger, presumably at the corporation's Westlake development.

In a statement to the Golden Gater, Mr. Ponsetta stated that the firm is "sorry to say that at the present time we have no reservations made for this type of buildings."

In a confirming telephone conversation, Mr. Poncetta added that the claims were "entirely erroneous" and that he had "never heard previously of anything concerning this."

When the question of national fraternities first arose last semester, proponents claimed that ground would "probably" be available on the new campus for building fraternity and sorority houses. This argument was short-lived, as advocates of nationalization were enlightened as to state laws prohibiting private buildings on state property.

Nat'l Frats Will Be Debate Topic

The current question of national fraternities at S.F. State will be debated back and forth in Anderson 210, March 26, it was announced this week.

The symposium is under the joint sponsorship of the Speakers' Bureau and Alpha Phi Gamma, national co-ed honorary journalism fraternity. The issue under dispute will deal with the right to the present local sororities and fraternities to "go national," by becoming affiliated with national fraternial organizations.

It wis predicted by Warren Gustafson that the symposium would be of considerable interest to the many students concerned with the question and its implications. Gustafson, of the Speakers' Bureau, will handle the arrangements for the oncoming debate.

Bob Long Heads Student Service Fund Drive Here

Bob Long has been appointed by the Board of Directors as chairman of the World Student Service Fund Drive, to take place this spring. Deans John Bergstresser and Dorothy Wells will be acting as faculty coordinators and advisors for the drive.

The fund, which is worldwide, assists deserving students financially in getting through college. The drive at the school will come under the auspices of the campus Chest drive.

Faculty advisers, representing various departments throughout the school, will be asked to participate, announced Long. He also said that the drive is expected to start sometime in April, but that no definite date has yet been set.

According to W.S.S.F. spokesmen funds collected during the April drive at state college can be sent directly to the Geneva headquarters for distribution or a specific university anywhere in the world may be selected to benefit from the money collected.

Sorority Plans Freshman Picnic

Celebration of St. Patrick's day will highlight festivities at the semi-annual freshman picnic for Sigmund Stern grove Tuesday, March 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. The seasonal outing is being sponsored by Kappa Theta sorority.

All S.F. State college students have been invited to the picnic. An admission price of 65 cents a head provides free hot dogs, cokes, coffee and salad, without additional charge.

'Everyman' Readings Set

The drama reading of "Everyman," a medieval morality play, has been changed to Thursday, March 19, in AA 12. Under the direction of Mrs. Jean White, the play readings are open to all students.

A nautical atmosphere will prevail at the Dolphin Club tomorrow night when Delta Gamma Tau and Bib 'n' Tucker jointly sponsor a "Caribbean Cruise."

Nets and pictures of fish will give the dance an appropriate atmosphere, stated Bob Wallenberg, head of publicity for D.G.T.

Women in cocktail dress and men in suits will dance to music provided by Sal Carson. The dance is set to begin at 9 p.m. and end at 1 a.m.

The Dolphin Club, which has a balcony that overlooks the bay, is located at the foot of Hyde street near Aquatic park. The club may be reached by going up Van Ness ave. from Market st. to Bay st. and then turn left on Hyde st. until the foot of Hyde, or follow the Embarcadero past Fisherman's Wharf to the club. Admission is $2.50 per couple.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR:

THE BOILER ROOM

Dear Editor:

Last week the Golden Gater presented some interesting information and comments concerning a move to push national fraternities and sororities on campus. Dean Wells was right when she stated: "The question concerns not only the students, but the entire college. . . Most students have only a surface idea of what national fraternities would mean. . . It (a student poll or questionnaire) should be an honest survey of the facts."

While attending college in Oregon, I was affiliated with a national fraternity, one of 90 chapters throughout the nation. I hope here to present some facts and information that may help some students learn more about "going national."

1. Creed of the College Fraternity: To cultivate the acquirement of sound learning, to instill a greater loyalty to one's college, to aid the development of character, to give its members an intimate beneficial fellowship with good men, to instill among its members such ideals as will result in actions worthy of the highest precepts of true manhood, democracy, and humanity. (From Carnegie H and book.)

2. Pledging: Any male student can be pledged by a fraternity during a semester provided he has at least a "C" average. After pledging, the individual must live in the fraternity house for one semester and maintain a "C" average. The following semester, he becomes a member.

3. Housing: For an S. F. State college fraternity to apply for membership into a national fraternity, the basic requirement is a house. No house means no national affiliation.

4. Governing Authority: The presidents of all "social" fraternities on the campus compose the Interfraternity Council. Meetings are held frequently and problems common to fraternities in general are brought up and discussed. Rules concerning rushing, pledging, and general fraternity conduct are set up and enforced by the council.

5. School Connections: The Dean of Men is truly the coordinator of the entire fraternity system. He has a list of all men in the fraternities, and midterm reports and discipline troubles are sent to him. All social events, pledging and initiation plans, and financial conditions of all fraternities are also sent to him. He meets with the Interfraternity Council and has supreme authority over all activities. The amount of cooperation existing between the fraternities and the Dean of Men determines the efficiency of these organizations.

6. Fraternity "Life": A young man has the opportunity to make social adjustment in his fraternity home. He learns how to live with others and forms lifelong friendships through his fraternal associations. Fraternities furnish a large part of the group living and social activity that is essential to a complete collegiate atmosphere.

7. Conclusion: In the United States, there are 80 national fraternities, there are approximately 3,500 chapters, and 700,000 members. California, Stanford, Fresno State, Santa Barbara State, San Diego State, and San Jose State all have national fraternities

Dear Editor:

In the Golden Gater on January 8, 1953, appeared under the head of "New Literary Mag Reviewed," an article by Mr. Tussing. This article, from its head, passed as a review of a new literary magazine.

The first issue of Statement was published and placed on sale in December, 1952. This much the writer of the Golden Gater recorded correctly. But that is all.

In the first place, it was assumed that the "high price" of the magazine was due to "an expensive cover with plastic binding—undoubtedly the single item which necessitated the high price." I say "assumed" because if the writer of the article had looked into what he was writing about, he would have found the greatest expense was that of the compositing which amounted to 80 per cent of the total production cost. Because of the labor volunteered by students, the plastic binding used cost 3/4 of a cent per copy—much cheaper than had the magazine been stapled. Also, the difference in cost between "cheap" and "good" paper is so small, considering the small number of copies printed, that the cost of the magazine would have remained little different regardless of which was used. Investigation would have shown that the production cost of Statement was minimal.

The writer's literary criticism was as valid as his reasoning for the cost of Statement. E. g., "The major criticism, however, is that Statement was as dry as its name. It lacked variety."

If, however, we were to list the standards by which literary variety is judged, it would be more than apparent that no two stories were the same; the stories did not lack variety.

We Are What We Are is subtle with underplayed humor as contrasted with the burlesque and colloquial-masculine Sydney Story. The narrative, The Quiet Isle, mainly has its action explained for the reader, while The Braids is more concerned with the covert level of action. Or Maybe Paris is a completed story of a socio-repetitious pattern.

These stories are of "quality" level without being esoteric; that is, the stories are, in general, understandable. They meet the standards of general literary quality—honesty of statement and perception, story interest, skill in handling plot, and worthiness of theme.

After correcting these errors in Mr. Tussing's judgment, we realize that a standard of general literary quality has been reached which will be maintained in the future. For the literary level to "come down to the level of San Francisco State students" infers that the only possible method of communication might be that of chalk drawings on the side-walk. An assumption that our student body is moronic in character requires a bit more evidence than Mr. Tussing has made available.

It appears that at no time in the Gater's criticism was it considered that a campus literary magazine might serve a purpose. First, it is to publish the best student writing. In this respect, with a student body of some five thousand students, 'to publish the best student writing' should be a need rather than a purpose.

The Gater owes the students of the college a competent and

National Frats: They Will Become Big Pressure Groups

By DALE TUSSING

The argument in favor of national fraternities and sororities at State seems to center around one basic claim: National organizations would finance the building of fraternity and sorority houses at the new campus, "helping to solve the desperate housing problem."

If providing new housing, even to a select few, were to be the only effect of the proposed move, there could be—there would be—no argument against national fraternities and sororities.

But there is argument.

The argument comes mainly from those at State who believe that this is a unique school—one free from the social pressures found at schools of comparable and even smaller size.

These people see an individuality about the school. They see no individuality about California, about Stanford, Fresno State, Santa Barbara State, San Diego State, or about San Jose State, the schools used most often as examples for those desiring nationalization.

The advent of national fraternities and sororities and the building of houses near the school would necessarily bring about an increase in the activity of fraternities. And an increase in fraternity activity would necessarily bring about a change in campus life.

All through the discussion of the problem, we have hesitated to use the hackneyed expression "rah-rah," but apparently that is the only definition we can find for the change that we expect from nationalization.

BONNIE McCLINTOCK

Editor, Golden Gater:

In the March 7, 1953, issue of the Golden Gater an article was published concerning several items which I stated at a Board of Directors meeting. These facts were either misquoted or misinterpreted by the writer. I am writing this letter in an attempt to clarify what I have already stated.

First: I did not say that because I was a student teacher and need nice clothes I could not afford to spend 20 cents in the Co-op. I did, however, state that being a student teacher, I am required to wear nice clothes. There are no adequate seating spaces on campus to accommodate anyone who wishes to bring a lunch, other than the unpainted (and sadly warped) bleachers.

Second: As for my not being able to afford the 20 cent minimum, I merely explained that it is not within my financial means to spend 20 cents each time I enter the Co-op. If one could purchase some substantial food other than pie, cake, etc., there would be some compensation for this 20 cent minimum.

The length of my "oration" as quoted in the aforementioned article supposedly consumed 30 minutes, when in reality I spoke 20 minutes at the most. Also, I was interrupted with questions and comments by members of the Board of Directors.

I hope the above facts will serve to rectify the negative impressions received from this article and to shed light on what was already stated.

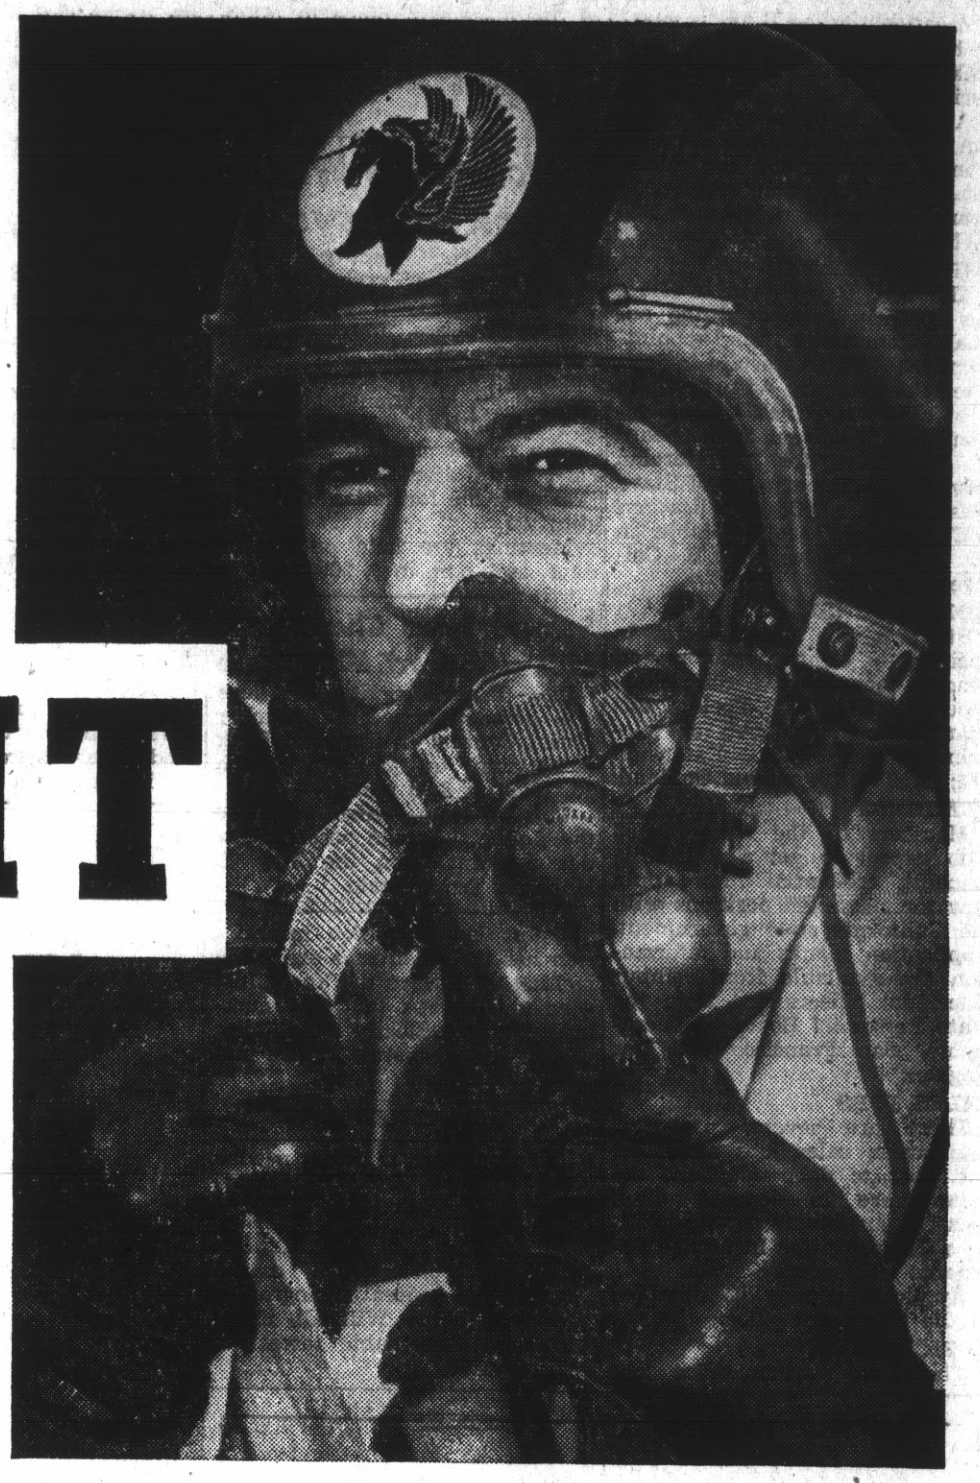
It's the size of the FIGHT in the man!



That's right! In the U. S. Air Force, it's not the size of the man in the fight—it's the size of the FIGHT IN THE MAN! And Aviation Cadets must have plenty of it. For Cadet training is rugged. If you're good enough . . . tough enough . . . smart enough . . . if you can take it while you're learning to dish it out, you can have one of the most fascinating careers in the world. You'll be equipped to fly the latest, hottest planes. You'll be prepared to take your position as an executive, both in military and commercial aviation as well as in industry. And while you're helping yourself you'll be helping your country.

WIN YOUR WINGS! It takes little over a year to win your wings as a Pilot or Aircraft Observer (Navigator, Bombardier, Radar Operator or Aircraft Performance Engineer). But at the end of your training you graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE? To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will give you a physical examination.
3. Next, you take a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

U.C. HIT HARDEST

Hardest hit by the proposed measure would be the University of California. The Board of Regents there has already termed the contemplated boost in tuition fees for out of state students "discriminatory" and a "selective" measure that would violate the democratic principles of state education institutions.

Shot Putters Live in Trees

Coach Ray Kaufman came out of his office last week and journeyed down onto the Cox stadium oval. He cast a shadow. That was enough for the mad mentor of the muscle men. He said, "Lissen, you turkeys'; it is nearing spring. It is time when a young man's fancy should turn to track."

LOTS OF DEPTH

By numbers the outlook is for a favorable year. Upwards to 30 members have taken advantage of the early spring with an eye to making this year's State squad the best rounded in the history of the college. But Kaufman's 1953 charges will lack a one-two punch in all events but the 440.

The Gators will again field a neat duet in the quartermile run with Bob Lualhati and Vic Gipson. These two athletes consistently thrilled spectators last season with their nose to nose run to the wire in nearly every race.

Gipson found his running mate a hard man to catch as the season passed the half way mark. Basketeer Gipson hits the oval ready for action. The normal training harrier needs six to eight weeks to round into shape.

SHETTLER SPARKLES

Distance ace Jim Shettler is a welcome sight on the cinderpath. For the first few meets Shettler will go the half and one mile route. By mid season Jim should be ready for the gruelling two mile run. The rangy blonde came through with a sparkling 9.59 eight lapper in the C.O.P. Invitational last season.

Welton Moore, by way of West Contra Costa J.C., will team up with Shettler in the 880. Moore should show well, having participated in the fall cross country program.

Coach Kaufman has another sure point getter in Freddie Berensmeirer. Fred will repeat his events of last year and again go to the post in the high and low hurdles and the high jump.

POSEY INJURED

The sprints are a question mark for the Gators. The question could be answered by State's 220 record holder, Len Posey. Len turned the furlong in 21.2 in 1949.

The hurdles will welcome a pair of newcomers to the Purple and Gold. Leon Cathy, a City college transfer, and Jack Landers, from San Leandro High will skip the high and low barriers.

For the first time in the school history the Gators may have three vaulters over the 12 foot mark. Ezra Goodwin, after a turn with Uncle Sam, has returned after an absence of two years to bolster the team. Goodwin will team up with three-year letterman Bruce Duncan to twin-win the vaulting event.

HERB UNPREDICTABLE

The only other bright spot in the field event picture is in the discus throw. Unpredictable Herb Anderson will again be in the circle in an attempt to garner points with his throws of 110 to 130 feet.

Tomorrow afternoon the Gators go to the post in the season opener. New talent could be uncovered. Shot putters live in trees, you know.

Gator Nine Loses Twice

Stifling heat and a converted football player beat San Francisco State last Saturday in a double header. College of Pacific, Jerry Streeter (last year's Tiger quarterback), and old Sol, made it plenty hot for the Golden Gators.

The first game, a 14-0 rout, saw Streeter, Bengal shortstop, smashing a homerun with Larry French driving in four runs with a four bagger, triple, and double.

The only solid hit the Gators got was when Jim McElroy, outfielder, turned pitcher, hit catcher Dub Doshier in the head with a pitched ball. Pacific's Doshier wasn't seriously hurt, but he had an awful headache.

With the sun waning, the Gators came back strong in the second game, but that man Streeter was there again to belt another homer and a game-winning two bagger in the last inning to break up a tie. The final score in the second contest was 7-6.

Roger Martin, softballing lefthander, seemed to be the only pitcher on the Gator staff capable of holding off the ferocious Tigers. He relieved in both games, holding the COP men to two runs in seven innings.

Fencers Lose To Stanford

Team Captain Jack Anderson and his fencing team will remember Saturday, February 28 for a long time. Competing against Stanford University at the Palo Alto gymnasium, they fought nip and tuck through their first meet of the season dropping it by a score of 13 to 12.

They'll remember it because the score bounced back and forth with no one getting a sizeable lead at any time. The tournament was tied 12-12 going into the last match. The bout went to Stanford who thereby won the event.

The State roster claims both experienced and new men on the State fencing varsity. Jack Anderson, fencing his last season for State, won three bouts while dropping two. Al Dorius echoed the same scoring taking three and dropping two.

Three men, Bill McClay, Barry Currin, and Warren Olson—new to the State fencing team—showed great promise in their first competition by turning in good performances against Stanford.

The team next takes on the University of California at the Cal gym Friday, March 27, 1953.

S.F. State JV Team Loses to Moffett

"Too little and too late" rang true for the State Jayvee nine Thursday, March 5, as the Junior Gators met the baseball team from Moffett Field on State's own diamond.

Handcuffed until the fifth inning, while the visiting nine scraped up nine runs, they bounded back in the fifth for two tallies and five more in the sixth. It isn't that they didn't have the opportunity in the first four frames—they had the bags full in the third, but could do no more.

Moffett Field opened the game with four runs on a single, two triples, an error, and a stolen base. They followed that up in the third with four more, and one more in the fourth. All this time State was held scoreless.

After that Moffett didn't get another run, and the State barrage started . . . two runs in the fifth by a homer with one on base by Johnston. And then five more in the sixth on four walks, two singles, an an error. But no more. The score stayed right there . . . Moffett Field 9, S.F. State 7.

Pitcher Heckman, Outfielder Fabiano Star in History-Making Bear Victory

By LeROY PACINI

A baby Gator tamed the mighty Golden Bears of California and made them look like timid, tarnished, cubs. The baby Gator's name was Joel Heckman, freshman from Crockett, and the score was 6-3.

This was an amazing feat for a freshman; it marked the first time in San Francisco State history that a Gator team beat the Bears. Heckman did it with an old-fashioned fast ball. The big bad Bears looked menacing walking up to the plate and menial walking away from it. They managed only seven hits.

STRIKES OUT FIVE

Heckman whiffed five Bears, and was just wild enough to be effective, walking five. He threw like a veteran in the clutches.

It was no easy game for big Joel. He was throwing to hard hitters, and facing one of Cal's best pitchers, Joe Gaggero, a lean, fastballing right-hander. Gaggero himself was throwing a good game until he was lifted in the ninth inning for Walt Ackerman, who fared no better.

Heckman wasn't the only ball player on the field. It was a team victory. Nobody played a bad ball game; they couldn't afford to. Heckman got magnificent support. Bob McCarthy handled him beautifully while Steve Driscoll played first base with ease, and Bob LaCosta nipped two Bear rallys in the bud by starting double plays. Norm Harris did a fine job in center field. And then there was Stan Fabiano. Fabiano, if he keeps up his present pace, will have to be known as Mr. Clutch.

The Gators had been pecking away at Gaggero getting runs the third, fifth, and eighth innings. Going into the Bear half of the eighth, Heckman had a two-hit white-wash job going, but lady luck wasn't with him.

GATORS TROUBLED

The first Cal man up singled. The next man popped up, which temporarily took the pressure off Heckman, but when the following man got another bloop single, things looked bad for the Gators.

Crew, Bear cleanup batter, was went to pick it up it spun away up next, and after Heckman got two strikes on him, he swung late, blooping a sagging liner to right field. As Bill Rudometkin went to pick it up it spun away from him veering toward the Cal bull pen in the corner of right field.

CREW SCORES

By the time Rudometkin had retrieved the ball, two runs had already crossed the plate, and Crew was still coming. The relay on the play was good, and it looked as if Crew would be nabbed at the plate, but the ball hit a pebble and bounced away from Bob McCarthy, Gator receiver. Joel Heckman, backing McCarthy up, still had a chance to nip the speeding Crew, but just as he was about to throw the ball he slipped.

Heckman pitched his way out of the inning, but the Gators' spirit seemed to be broken. Here they were with a great victory in their clutches only to have it all but taken away from them by a series of freakish plays.

They still had the ninth inning though, and they still had Stan Fabiano, who was leading off that ninth inning. Gaggero threw three straight balls to Fabiano, then two straight strikes. He grooved the next pitch. He should never have done it.

S.F. STATE RALLIES

Fabiano belted a tremendous 375 foot blast to right center field, and when the dust had cleared Stanley was perched on third. Bob McCarthy followed with a walk as Gaggero began to wobble.

Bill Rudometkin flied to right scoring the swift Fabiano. Stan Korich doubled sending McCarthy to third. Lou Rosso walked. Exit Gaggero, and enter Ackerman. On an attempted squeeze play, Driscoll popped out. Heckman then walked and LaCosta singled getting one run across, but Rosso was thrown out at the plate ending the inning.

The game was yet far from over. The first two Bears got sloppy singles, and Heckman was in trouble again, but not for long. The next man popped up, and big Joel dramatically struck out the last two batters to leave men stranded at first and third. End the threat, and the game.

The Bear men walked off the field, muttering to themselves. Joel Heckman floated off.

SENATOR McCARTHY

Voice Probe Previews School Investigation

By SHEILA CROFUT

Television audiences got a preview of things to come in regard to probable college investigations during the March 3 session of the Voice of America hearings. The questioning centered around a book written by Mr. Reed Harris, head of the Voice program, during his faculty days at Columbia university.

As the book, which was written 21 years ago, contains quite a bit of philosophy regarding academic freedom on the part of the author, not regarded as proper philosophy today, Senator McCarthy found it necessary to question Mr. Harris at length about his convictions—then and now. Since I am a prospective teacher, and am concerned with the problem of academic freedom, the implications of these hearings concern me.

From my personal observation the reactions to Marxism have changed in emotional tone quite radically in the last 20 years. The attitudes towards academic freedom have also changed. Mr. Harris was once of the opinion that a teacher should be allowed to teach anything he sincerely believes. He was also once of the opinion that the philosophy of communism was a good one.

Mr. Harris has changed a lot in 21 years. His attitudes have become more mature, and his store of knowledge more extensive. Mr. Harris is a case in point and I would like to express my opinion of the implications involved in questioning and condemning people for convictions held 10 or 20 years in the past.

In particular, I feel that a person with a blind and naive faith in democracy is usually more susceptible to opposing criticism than one who accepts the reality that a demorcratic form of government is of necessity imperfect.

If we educate our young people so they can recognize the inadequacies of democracy, we educate them for reality. By encouraging criticism, evaluation, and comparison we as teachers are building a stronger democracy, not a weaker one. In my opinion, the most dangerous citizens of a democratic form of government are those who have never questioned its principles.

This is a time of tension, and the stress placed on personal convictions—especially of teachers,—helps to make it so. However, we must not stop having opinions because of this.

More than ever it is necessary for us, as future teachers and citizens, to evaluate and criticize our system of government and to be articulate and proud of our convictions.

It is only through intelligent and mature participation that we build an intelligent and mature democracy.
